INTRODUCTION

WHAT DID WE DO?

This booklet has been carried out in the scope of the Contact Making Seminar "Let's Connect" (project No. 2022-1-BG01-KA153-YOU-000055316) which is funded by the Erasmus+ Programme of the European Union. The seminar brought together 24 rural youth workers from 8 countries to develop networking competencies and build a community for the improvement of rural youth centers work. The seminar took place in Bakuriani, Georgia from the 20th to 28th of November 2022. It was led by the Bulgarian organization "Youth movement for the development of the rural areas in Bulgaria" and hosted by the Georgian youth organization Umbrella.

WHY DID WE DO IT?

Rural young people have fewer opportunities compared to their urban peers. It refers to educational, economic, infrastructural, social and other challenges. The rural realities are different, that's why it requires different approaches to solve the issue.

Youth work as a responsible field for personal and social youth development is one of the key actors of the field that could bring positive impact. Youth centers and youth organizations operating in rural areas are essential spaces for development of young people. They have specific work approaches, challenges, methods, and policies that they work for. Youth workers who are a part of rural youth centers are in a need to exchange the best practices in the fast-changing world and to be updated according to the challenges and needs that emerge nowadays in the field.

The project "Let's Connect" aims to develop the quality of youth work in rural youth centers by developing networking competencies and building youth workers' communities around the idea of innovation.

The main objectives of the project are as follows:

- To explore the challenges/needs of rural youth and find solutions via cooperation and innovation in the field of youth work;
- To establish a network of rural youth workers and collaboration among them;
- To share good practices in rural youth work including the digital youth work applied to the rural youth centers;
- To create intellectual visual outcome with good practices for rural youth workers;
- To promote intercultural dialogue and exchange among the participants;
- To promote international networking of rural youth centers;
- To explore further possibilities for cooperation on this topic within the Erasmus+.

WHO DID IT?

The booklet has been created by the participants in the Contact Making Seminar “Let’s Connect” and has been designed by the team of facilitators.

Need of the network

Networking is an extremely useful and enjoyable experience.

In youth work, we need to have great networks as it sets us up to collaborate with other organisations and youth workers to provide the best service possible to our young people.

Youth work plays a massive role in supporting young people from rural areas to overcome barriers in their lives. Their access to quality youth services that are providing possibilities for personal and social development is very limited and often totally inaccessible.

During the third European Youth Work Convention, the participating youth workers from the EU and COE member states and other stakeholders strongly recognized the need for an international network of youth workers. Network as the main tool to give youth workers a voice and support peer learning, and quality developments in the youth sector across Europe.

Five reasons why networking is important for rural youth worker

Have an informal and collaborative space to develop skills through the exchange of experiences, information and resources.

Opportunities to develop partnership

Discussion and coordination of funding/shared co-funding

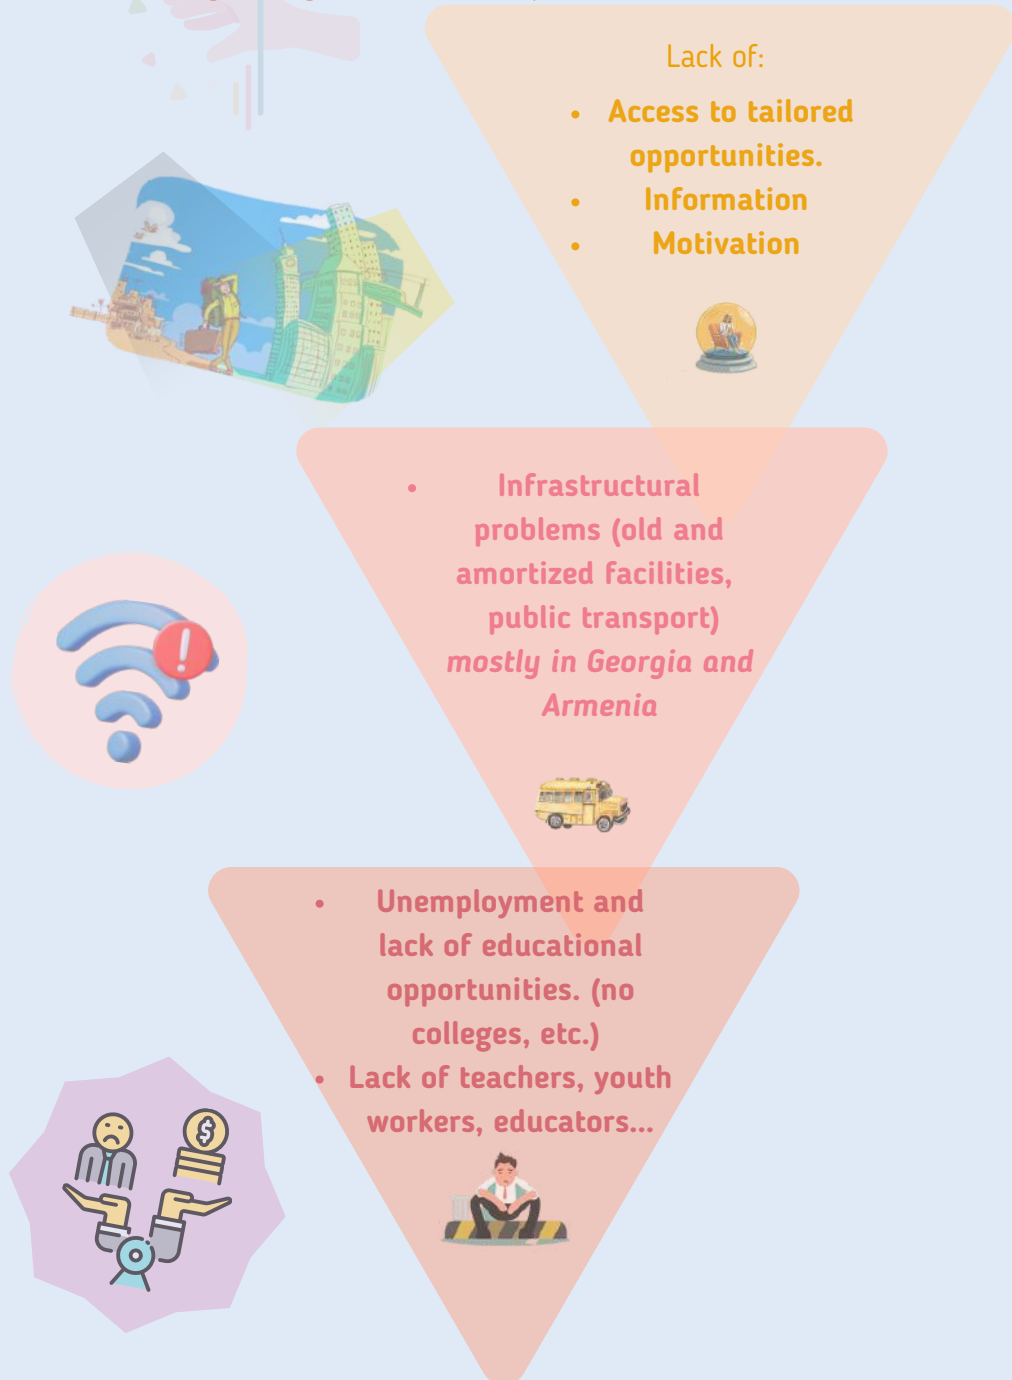

Support the development of new rural youth organisations

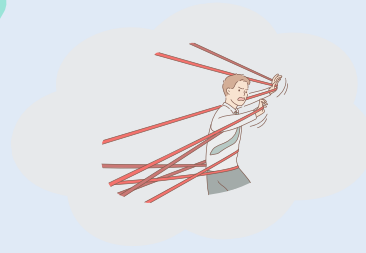

Lobby and highlight the problems and needs of rural youth to focus the attention of international and national bodies, as well as the general public

Rural youth realities in 8 countries

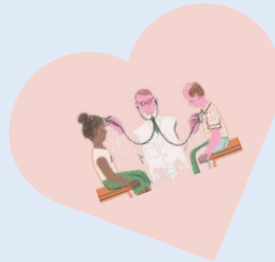

During the seminar we summarized and highlighted the fundamental obstacles faced by rural young people in 8 participant countries (Georgia, Ukraine, Moldova, Armenia, Spain, Portugal, Bulgaria, and Türkiye).

- Financial difficulties

- Health care

- Hard agricultural work
- lack of extracurricular activities and places (practice sports, learn instruments)

- Human rights problems (inequality, discrimination, hate speech, etc.)

During the seminar, participants illustrated rural youth issues via short performancies.

NETWORKING IDEA

We found that there are a lot of youth workers around the world who are really good in work with youth in their countries. But they don't know the real situation in other countries. That's why a great idea comes to our mind – create a youth workers network. It's possible to discover a different point of view, share experience, and ideas, and find partners for creating new projects.

Objectives

- To give youth workers a platform to connect with one another globally
- To exchange expertise, information, methods, and practices.
- To develop fresh initiatives, programs, and resources

Platform

The most convenient way to connect people from all around the world is through digital technologies. Because of that, we decided to connect via Telegram and Facebook social platforms.

We chose Telegram as it is the most secure and private social media tool so we can be sure of our privacy, and we can organize our needs in a proper way, and Facebook, because we want to be available for everyone.

The Google Form is another tool that we created to understand the compatibility of young people and youth work.

Another networking tool is a video which will help us to motivate people to find connections and raise the interest of youth workers among the youth.

Why would you join?

- To find partners
- To improve the competences of facilitating learning, designing programs, managing resources, collaborating in teams, communicating meaningfully, displaying intercultural sensitivity, networking and advocating, assessing and evaluating, and being civically engaged.

Digital Tools for Youth Workers

Digital technologies have enabled unprecedented levels of communication, community building, and social interaction, breaking the barriers of location, time, and social context. And youth workers from rural area use it as an effective tool in their youth work.

Technologies help to facilitate many processes, such as:

1. GET TO KNOW EACH OTHER

QR Code Generator game. "QR" stands for "Quick Response", which refers to instant access to the information hidden in the Code. It is quite easy to add data for your QR code – link to website, contact information, text, Facebook page, PDF file, image, or music.

2. EVALUATION

For evaluating the project, the digital tool that can be used is  Mentimeter. It is an online polling tool that can add an interactive element to presentation, or recorded session. Question types include Multiple Choice, Ranking, Scales, Word Cloud and Open Ended, among others. It can be used for icebreakers, checking knowledge... Additional features: quiz mode for collecting information, and a Q&A

3. TEAM BUILDING

Gather Town is an interactive virtual space that simulates real-life, in-person interactions. With an 8-bit pixelized video game aesthetic and familiar online video and chat features. Users create an avatar who can seamlessly move in and out of interactions and conversations with other participants they encounter and explore galleries of digital objects such as videos and sound files.

How to use it?

A large room (named "Weitz236") can hold up to about 200 concurrent people, with 10 private spaces

A mid-sized room (named "Weitz235") can hold up to 50 concurrent people, with 8 private spaces that each have 9 "chairs" and a podium to address everyone in the space at once

Virtual outside space (named "Gus Day") suitable for up to ~200 concurrent people, 6 private spaces, a shared game area,

5. BRAINSTORMING

Slack - The best tool for project management. You can manage the project together with your team mates, online collaboration tools, share files, search through conversation archives to find relevant information.

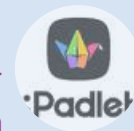

4. MEETINGS

video meeting platform to meet your colleagues from your youth organisation and brainstorm to find the best for your youth project.

6. REFLECTION

Padlet can be used whenever you need to gather thoughts, ideas, examples, experiences, etc from a group of people, be it your colleagues, partners, team members, or participants in an educational activity.

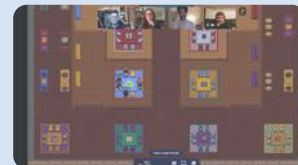

7. PROMOTIONS

With Pages, you can create a page for your organisation, project, program, activity, etc. People who like and follow your page will get information about it on their news feeds.

8. GAMES

Gather town is a virtual town that enables real-time simulation of different places informal space for exchange, discussion and making virtual spaces to bring people together.

9. ONLINE LEARNING

Wordwall can be used to create both interactive and printable activities. They can be played individually by students, or be teacher-led with students taking turns at the front of the class.

10. PRESENTATION

is the world's largest coding community for children and a coding language to create digital stories, games, and animations. Scratch promotes computational thinking and problem-solving skills, creative teaching and learning, self-expression and collaboration, and equity in computing. Scratch is always free and is available in more than 70 languages.

Conclusion

As a result of the Contact making Seminar "Let's Connect", the participants improved their networking competencies, improved digital skills, get acquainted rural youth realities, familiarized with the legal documents of different countries, which regulates youth work. Increased their knowledge of youth workers in methods of non-formal learning and establish a long-term partnership between youth organisations.

The booklet is a useful tool for youth workers in rural areas who want to discover more about youth work, should become a member of the network, where they will share and receive other people's practices, experiences, and collaborate on new projects with other organizations and youth workers.

THANK YOU!
